

Resource envelope per scored run

Earlier runs all converged on the organisers' rule long before either ceiling bound them. The scored run (run 07, highlighted) is the first to be stopped by the six-hour ceiling instead, because bagging five factorisation machines makes each evaluation about five times more expensive. It still needs no GPU: the model is a NumPy factorisation machine.